ATTORNEY COMES TO CAPITAL FOR WHEELER CHARGE

Special Assistant Attorney
General Lays Foundation
For Indictment

DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Lays Reproduction of Letters
Passing Between Senator
And Campbell

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 9.—John S. Pratt, special assistant attorney general who assisted in securing the indictment against Senator Wheeler in Montana, today laid before the senate committee investigating the subject the documentary evidence on which the indictment partially was based.

The material consisted of photostatic reproductions of correspondence said to have passed between Senator Wheeler and Gordon Campbell, the Montana oil promoter, for whom the senator is alleged to have appeared unlawfully before the interior department.

One letter ostensibly from Wheeler to Campbell dated March 8, 1923, asked Campbell "to have your office send me details of the permit in order that when I take it up I may be able to discuss it intelligently with the department of the interior."

Pratt produced also what purported to be a letter dated May 5, 1923, in which Gordon Campbell offered E. S. Booth, the solicitor of the interior department, forty acres of land out of one oil permit and suggested that forty acres additional be assigned to F. M. Goodwin, assistant secretary of the interior, if the permit could be granted.

The letter said that if Campbell could get his "hooks" on the land the two officials assisting "could make more money" than they "would otherwise make in a long time."

Booth's response on May 19, according to the record, said he would take up the matter with Goodwin, though he himself had left the interior department May 1.

Pratt told the committee he had with him all the documentary evidence in the possession of the department of justice concerning the charges against Senator Wheeler, but added there was other material as to Senator Wheeler in his hands "which had no bearing on the present charge."

Six Italians Who Atoned For One Man's Death

Sentence Woman to Rest Of Year in County Jail

Manda Hammond alias Leona Davis, will spend 228 days in jail before running into real complications in the penalties to be exacted from writing worthless checks.

The lone woman inmate of the county jail will spend the remaining days of 1924 within the gloomy walls of the county jail unless some further action is taken toward the payment of her fines which extend the period of her incarceration.

Regardless of what action may be taken by friends in the matter of freedom for the woman, she must serve 120 days in the county jail or practically four months as set out in the sentence of Justice Joseph Anderson before whom she appeared yesterday.

Justice Anderson, at the end of the preliminary hearing, sentenced ed the woman to 30 days each on the four counts on passing worth less checks and assessed a fine of $10 and costs in each of the four misdemeanor counts. The total time extracted from the sentence and fine amounted to 228 days.

Nor has Manda Hammonds, alias Leona Davis, paid the penalty for her debt in passing checks on Ada merchants—she was also bound over on a bond of $1000 to await action in a district court on a felony charge, a fifth check having been passed for an amount exceeding $20, which imposes felony action.

To heap to the coals of her retribution, Manda Hammonds, alias Leona Davis, will face similar charges at Enid following disposal of her case in district court, which will be taken up when she has served 228 days in the county jail.

CHILDREN NEEDED IN HEALTH WORK

Director of Public Health
Bureau Points Out Need
Of Training

(By the Associated Press)
ATLANTA, May 9.—"The only way in which health training and instruction can be made to reach the intimate daily personal lives of all our people is through training the children in public schools." This is a statement made by Dr. Charles H. Keene, Director of the Bureau of Health Education of the state department of public instruction, Harrisburg, Pa., before the National Tuberculosis Association today.

"Teaching of health," says Dr. Keene, "must be as large a part of the regular school curriculum as teaching of arithmetic, geography, or any of the routine subjects. It will never be possible to set aside definitely for health teaching enough of the daily time available for school use so that all the necessary habits may be formed and information acquired concerning health."

"All school courses must be devised and taught in such a manner, then, as to permit frequent opportunities for correlation with the various parts of the health program. Physical geography becomes a matter of fascinating interest if we know its relation to the purity and safety of the water which we drink. Art becomes a more living thing when it is used, through posters and legends, to emphasize good habits relating to food, exercise, fresh air and cleanliness. History becomes much more than the accumulation of dry facts when we know the influence of health and disease on great movements of history. Health teaching should be interwoven with the other six chief factors in adequate school health program which are: hygiene of the school plant, physical education, the hygienic arrangement of the school program, the health of the teachers, health supervision and the proper training of teachers."

STATE THIRD PARTY MAY RESURRECT WILSON

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 9.—Political observers were prepared today to watch carefully a convention of third party supporters scheduled to meet here. According to announcement of leaders in the movement three hundred delegates from 56 counties are to attend.

It was said that a complete platform is to be adopted and an entire slate of candidates for national and state offices endorsed.

George Wilson, former non-partisan league leader in North Dakota and for a time president of Oklahoma A. and M. college, is a candidate for the senatorial endorsement, according to gossip in political circles.

J. F. Houchin, chairman of the third party organization in the state, is expected to preside over the convention and to make the keynote speech.

COLLEGE PUBLICATION TELLS OF FUTURE AIMS

The last issue of The Journal, a publication issued for teachers of the East Central State Teachers College, will go into the mails Saturday. It carries much information about the summer term of the college and gives detailed information about the kind and amount of work that will be offered.

More than three hundred classes will be in progress during the summer months. Around 2,500 student-teachers are expected, and the facilities will be taxed. Not only all the college buildings and grounds will be put to use, but the Hayes, and the Willard school buildings of the city will be called upon. The training school will be conducted in the Hayes building, the students being transported back and forth by truck free of charge.

President Linscheid and the faculty are making every effort to get the school before every prospective student of the entire district. More interest has thus far been shown than ever before. There were almost 2,000 enrolled last summer, and indications are this number will be swelled from 10 to 30 percent.

REV. A. B. NORRELL DIES AT DALLAS

Father of Norrells Here Dies
After Long Illness
In Dallas

Rev. A. B. Norrell, father of Byron and Paul Norrell and Mrs. Lura Skinner of Ada, died at his home in Dallas Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment took place in Dallas.

Paul Norrell had been at the bedside of his father since Sunday morning. Byron arrived Thursday evening at 6 o'clock, two hours after his father had passed away. Mrs. Skinner and Mrs. Byron Norrell went down Thursday night for the funeral.

Rev. Norrell had been in failing health for a number of years. Unable to continue his work in God's cause, he has often expressed his desire to go to his reward and death was not unwelcome to him. Although realizing that he probably could not recover, everything humanly possible was done to restore the broken body to health. His age of 78 years, however, was too advanced for skill to restore the soundness of body.

Rev. Norrell since early manhood has been a Presbyterian preacher. Most of his life was spent in Sunday school work, much of his time being spent in Western Texas, organizing and encouraging Sunday schools in that section when the settlements were far apart and the work most difficult.

He has visited Ada many times, and scores of people here came to love him. He had no enemies and he made friends readily and held them permanently. He often expressed his desire to be buried in Rose-dale Cemetery, and the children had planned to carry out his wishes. During the last few days of life, however, he changed his mind and wanted his body to rest in the Lone Star state where he had labored most of his life.

FOUR MEN NAMED TO SETTLE STRIKE

Coal Miners Controversy May Be Ended by Action
Of Four Men

(By the Associated Press)
MCLESTER, May 9.—Four men are to settle the wage controversy between the Oklahoma coal operators association and the United Mine workers union. The joint conference reopened at 10:30 o'clock this morning after all day separate conference Thursday in which each side prepared for the final demands to be made today.

William Steckleberg of Henryetta and Hugh Rice of McAlester represent the operators association and Andrew McGaffey, president of the united mine workers district 21, and Arthur Richardson of Coalgate, are handling the miners' side of the conference. It had been agreed upon Thursday that the two committees consisting of nine on each side be cut to two each to facilitate more rapid negotiations and discussions over points involved.

It is rumored but unconfirmed that no immediate agreement is possible. Oklahoma operators are displeased with the Kansas city wage scale agreement which they contend would work a hardship on the mining industry of Oklahoma because of competitive markets and unbalanced distribution cost of the product.

FORMER CONVICT AND AL SPENCER ACCOMPLISH SHOT

(By the Associated Press)
BARTLESVILLE, May 9.—Stanley Snyder, former convict and alleged accomplice of Al Spencer, notorious bank robber, was shot to death here today by his wife, Mrs. Aileen Snyder, from whom he was separated. The shooting occurred at Mrs. Snyder's home. She is under arrest.

Police quote Mrs. Snyder as saying Snyder forced his way into her home, beat her, and threatened her life. She shot him five times. A divorce suit between them was pending.

May Festival Off Again

The May Festival will not be held this evening.

Owing to the absence of May weather, Miss Annie Weaver Jones, director, announced at 2:30 this afternoon that the fête would be held Monday afternoon unless continued wintry weather prevented.

Postponed over from Thursday afternoon, the original date for the festival, an annual affair at East Central, those in charge confessed regret that weather conditions forced a further postponement.

Fear of endangering the health of some of the girls in the fête because of the frigid weather and general uncomfatableness that the visitors would necessarily undergo made the second postponement certain.

THREE DIE WHEN GALLOWS CLICK

Three Pay Penalties For Murders in Kentucky at Eddyville Prison

(By the Associated Press)
EDDYVILLE, Ky., May 9.—Kentucky's first triple execution by electricity was held in the western state penitentiary here this morning when Frank Thomas, George Weick and Charles Diller, the latter a negro, paid the extreme penalty for murder convictions.

They died in the order named. The doomed men walked from the death cells of the penitentiary to the chair, where the hoods were placed over their heads for the execution, without any outward showing of fear. They walked to their doom in steady steps and did not waver on approaching the chair.

Thomas was the only one of the three to offer a statement or make an utterance before the death trap was set. Before going to the chair he stated: "Good night, I am going home. I am not a bit afraid."

The execution was committed in 45 seconds.

Thomas was 70 years of age and the oldest man to pay the death penalty in the history of Kentucky. He was sentenced to death for the murder of a friend and benefactor.

Weick was also sentenced to death for murder and Diller, the negro, was put to death for slaying a railroad carman at the yards at Breckinridge, Kentucky.

HARD LIFE FOR DOGS IN ADA—TAX 'EM TOO

A dog's life in Ada is difficult. Even the lowly canine must harken to the call of the tax assessor or meet his doom.

The penalty of non-payment of dog taxes in Ada is death—swift death with a city policeman as executioner.

Somer Jones, new mayor, has decreed that all citizens who desire to maintain their canines as pets must hasten to the city hall and meet the tax requirements for the dog.

Jones stated that the city ordinance does not provide for a fund to maintain a pound where dogs may be collected and held until owners pay the penalty, so consequently policemen must resort to killing dogs to enforce the laws and keep the streets free from canines.

GILLETTE TO BECOME SENATORIAL CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Speaker Gillette of the House has decided to become the Republican candidate for senate from Massachusetts.

Gillette reached a decision concerning his candidacy for the senate post following a conference with political leaders at his office last night. A formal statement concerning his candidacy for the republican nomination followed his visit to the White House.

He will seek election to the post now held by Senator Walsh, Democrat.

TRAPS SWING LOW AND SIX ITALIANS PAY PENALTY FOR DEATH OF RESTAURANT OWNER

Four of Italy's Native Sons Go Calmly To Scaffold of Death to Give Up Lives

TWO ATTEMPT TO DODGE DEATH

Italians Turn Last Hours Into Love Feast; Guards Given Trinkets by Doomed Sextet

(By the Associated Press)
AMITE, La., May 9.—The hanging of six Italians for the murder exactly three years ago of Dallas Calmes, a restaurant owner, was completed when the trap was sprung on the last of the doomed men at 1:16 this afternoon. The first pair met death at 12:01 and the second pair was pronounced dead at 12:37.

Roy Leona of Brooklyn and Natale Deamore of New Orleans were the first to meet their doom. They walked lazily to the pair of gallows that had been constructed for their execution and met death without any outward demonstration.

Andre Lamaia of Chicago, who had wounded himself slightly with a pocket knife, and Joseph Bocchio also of Chicago collapsed when being brought out of their confinement to be hung and it was necessary to place them at the trap strapped in chairs.

Joseph Giglio of Brooklyn and Joseph Rini of New Orleans were the last to taste death from the gallows. They faced death calmly and with almost reckless abandon. Giglio and Rini talked freely before their death. Rini was a born American but Giglio still held to his native Italy.

Bocchio, whose execution was the contention of several petitions in seeking clemency and for whom the widow and relatives of the slain man as well as the leading citizens of the Parish have assisted in seeking a stay of execution, went to the gallows in a stupor after all efforts to stay the hand of the executioner had failed.

The death of Bocchio is the concluding paragraph to a most colorful life. The doomed man was preparing his life for priesthood when the pall of murder settled over his life. In a concluding statement he said, "I have done my most to drive away fear. If I die, I die—perhaps I shall live again. I hate to leave so soon, there is plenty of sunshine in life and I want more time to play."

The ground floor of the jail looked more like an arsenal than a prison. In addition to the guards that had been placed around the parish jail yards, several troops were inside the jail enclosure.

All prisoners gave away souvenirs to the guards who had watched over them since their incarceration at Emtite. Giglio gave away a watch and a necktie. Lamantia gave away a Chinese ring and others gave away trinkets to the guards.

"Capital punishment is criminal and should be abolished in the United States," Rini told press representatives before being sent to the gallows.

"Well, old boy," he said addressing Roy Leona, "I hope I see you in heaven, but I am not sure of getting there. But, maybe if I throw my coat over the Golden Gate, I can sneak in afterward."

AMITE, Louisiana, May 9.—The final meal was served at eleven a.m. It consisted of chicken gumbo, which was ordered by them last night. This morning the men drank coffee upon awakening. During the night several became hungry and as all the restaurants in the town were closed the troopers prepared egg sandwiches for them.

The six men spent their last few hours with priests. Outside, in the enclosure which surrounds the double gallows, final preparations were being made. The trappings are in the center of a platform twelve by fifteen feet square.

Underneath is a movable rack for physicians to stand to examine the bodies. The jail and courthouse in the center of a large square was surrounded with patrols of national guardsmen. Authorized persons were not permitted on the square. Another line of guards paced back and forth along a rope barriers strung about the jail at a distance of about 30 feet.

The square is surrounded by a ditch and Adjutant General Tombs had it filled with water yesterday. It made a moat around the square from a few inches to two feet in and from four to ten feet in width. The business section of the town was crowded today.

A brief on the sextet:
Joseph Bocchio: 24 years of age, unmarried and a native of Italy but holding naturalization papers.

Natale Deamore: 41 years of age, married and a native of Italy. He has been a resident of New Orleans for 15 years and is the father of a son and daughter in their teens.

Joseph Giglio: 33 years of age, married and a naturalized citizen, although a native of Italy. Wife living in Brooklyn.

Andrea Lamantia: 24 years of age, unmarried and a citizen of Italy.

Roy Leona: 36 and married. Leona's wife and children live in Brooklyn and the youngest child, an infant son, was born shortly after his arrest. Leona is also a native Italian.

Joseph Rini: 24 and unmarried. Rini has lived in New Orleans since coming over from Italy.

Both Leona and Deamore grew violent before the execution. Both attempted suicide before being brought here from New Orleans.

Leona attempted suicide by stabbing himself to death while in New Orleans awaiting transportation here. Both men claimed their innocence.

Under the Louisiana law, criminals sentenced to execution and who become insane before the execution are sentenced to an asylum and upon their recovery of normal faculties are executed.

The crime for which six men paid the supreme penalty was committed shortly after midnight May 8, 1921. Dallas Calmes, a restaurant operator, was aroused by a noise at the rear of his home and upon investigating was shot down by a man dimly discernible in the darkness. The bandits, who had gone to independence to rob the bank, boarded their automobile and fled. The authorities immediately summoned blood-hounds at Crystal Springs, Miss., and telephoned the New Orleans police.

Detectives at New Orleans, on a tip from Amite, the seat of Tangipahoa parish, before the fugitives were arrested, went to the home of a wealthy Italian resident of New Orleans which it was believed might be a refuge for the bandits. The house was empty but there was every indication it had been deserted hurriedly. Nearby, in an automobile, they found the bodies of Cipolla Gaeto and another Italian named Giovanni, who had been shot to death apparently a few hours earlier. This mystery never was solved and Roy Leona after his confession, said he and his companions knew nothing of that affair.

With the bloodhounds a posse followed a highway out of Independence and found the deserted car of the bandits. In the machine were pistols, a large quantity of ammunition and dynamite. The dogs followed a trail into a thicket and there the posse arrested Joseph Giglio and Roy Leona, Brooklyn, N. Y., Joseph Bocchio and Andrea Lamantia, of Chicago, and Natale Deamore and Joseph Rini, of New Orleans. Two other Italians were arrested as possible suspects later, but were exonerated.

Protest Their Innocence
The six prisoners protested their innocence, declaring they were on a camping trip, but all were convicted of murder. An appeal to the state supreme court resulted in a retrial and a second conviction which the higher court sustained. Then counsel for the condemned men appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States which in March refused to review the case because of a lack of jurisdiction.

Throughout the three years of legal battle the men were supplied with ample funds by Italian and (Continued on Page Four)

SEARCH STARTED FOR BIRD
IN WILDS OF AMAZON

NORFOLK, Va., Apr. 5.—A search for Hoatzin, a reptilian bird described by scientists as a survival from prehistoric ages, was begun today by a party of ornithologists who left here aboard the steamer Stephen for an expedition into the jungles of the upper Amazon river where living specimens of the strange creature are reported to have been seen.

The Hoatzin, according to ornithologists, began life as a fish paddling about in the miasmic ooze.

Former Ada Hill Artist is

Frisco Recruits

Guy (Lefty) Williams, erstwhile Ada baseball star and pitching ace, has "arrived." No longer is he a mere candidate for big league honors. He has shown that he has the stuff and is now a regular member of the San Francisco Seals, having won a position over seventeen other rookie pitchers who were ambitious to represent the coast city in the Pacific coast race this year.

Williams is the only rookie to be retained by the club, having made good in his early tryouts, and is considered one of the brightest prospects in the entire league with the season just opening.

After making a brilliant record in the preliminary games Lefty was sent against the Pittsburgh Pirates to hold down the sack for the Seals. For seven innings he held his experienced opponents, the best the Pirates had to offer, well in control but in the eighth began to weaken. Another pitcher was substituted and the game quickly lost.

In this game Lefty made what is believed to be a world record, that of tossing nineteen balls without a blow being offered. In making this record he struck out two and passed one batter, with two balls and one strike on another before a batter so much as struck at his offerings.

Comments on Williams' pitching gathered from Pirate players indicate that he had won their respect. Their manager expressed a willingness to sign him up immediately, while the players who faced him showed respect for his offerings.

Incidentally he won for himself a regular place in the Seal schedule and it looked to be a great record in his first year of big baseball. It is said that he secured three hits in one game, which indicates improvement in hitting.

Motor Trouble is Cause of Delay in Round-World Flight

SEATTLE, Wash., April 5.—Motor trouble with the plane of Major Frederick L. Martin, commanding the flight of four cruisers of the United States army's around the world flight, stopped a hopoff today as the machines were ready to rise from Lake Washington after the engines had been started with difficulty.

Major Martin said another start would not be attempted until tomorrow.

Major Martin also broke the metal tip off a propeller. The main trouble, however, it was announced, was that his motor would give only 1,500 revolutions per minute where as he needed 1,700 to rise with his load.

They ain't been much t' inspire spring poetry so far this alleged spring. In fact t' beauties uv spring has been as scarce as holes in 1. A few ducks has been scared off uv Red river an' come over th' last week, but no duck that had got t' Florida would be fool a nuff t' come back t' this country with th' weather bein' like it has been this alleged spring.

Th' art uv mud shots has been developed t' th' nth degrees, where ever they is, by th' few that has failed t' get golf out uv th'ir systems an' has gone out uv th' course an' tried t' play between th' deluges. Uv course they has had th' advantage uv improv'n' th'ir lies an' most ever body has had so much pride in th'ir former scores that they have not felt no shame in reportin' several strokes less on ever hole than they actually done it in. Th' winter rule permittin' th' improv'n' uv th' lie has certainly developed some quick thinkers.

Feelin' a hunch that t' day wuz goin' t' be a better day fer yacht racin' than it would be for golf, th' typer uv the lines went out t' shoot a round yesterday afternoon. Accordin' t' th' calendar, th' winter rule uv improv'n' the lie is supposed t' be null an' voids after th' 1st of April, so I decided t' play ever shot where I found it, an' right in th' beginnin' I want t' state that if any body asts me what I done th' round in, I'll still be improv'n' th' lie when I tell him. It would be impossible t' describe th' round in writin'. A quarry where they is settin' off blasts would be th' best description that could be offered.

Uv course a guy that goes out t' th' course with a nice bunch uv alabais can make th' story uv his round sound a hole lot better than th' careless guy that leaves his alabais at home. One uv th' handiest alabais th' typer uv these lines ever used is th' one about tryin' t' change form on a certain kind uv shot.

Fer inst. almost ever day now when you pick up a paper an' turn t' th' sportin' page, you see a article wrote by some pro on th' proper way t' hold th' club for a long low drive again th' wind. Well, th' idea appeals t' you, havin' smacked one out a few days a go that went so high it nearly fell on you while still on th' tee. You cant hardly wait till you get home t' get out th' driver an' stand th' same way th' guy does in th' picture an' swing a few times barely missin' th' light fixture. An' long in th' shank uv th' evenin' you goes out t' th' course t' try out th' theory.

Th' first time you tries it, it works fine, like most first shots in golf does. Th' second time you find th' ball has somehow went straight t' a hazzard, witch any shot is liable t' do at times. But when th' third drive begins t' head t' th' cactus lookin' like a rainbow tryin' t' turn over on its back, you begin t' wonder if th' pro that wrote that article wuz as good as he says he is. Th' fourth drive, witch you also tries t' play th' same way, not likin' t' be disrespectful uv no one you aint met, also heads fer th' jungles an' you decides t' play th' rest uv th' drives accordin' t' your old form. So you steps up on th' 5th tee with a feelin' that you has made a monkey out of yourself long a nuff an' you will now show any uv th' article wrtn' pros a example uv form that is worthy uv a continued story. Well, it would take a asbestos tablet t' contain th' remarks you makes when you sees what th' dream uv a perfect drive has turned into. Th' only part uv th' old game that is natural is th' language an' they may be a few new ideas creepin' int' it, but they won't be th' result uv readin' no articles on how t' play th' game. An' when th' wife asts you whdt your score wuz fer th' round, you use th' newspaper article for a alibi an' improve th' lie again. They aint no doubt but what th' alibis witch is got frum readn' th' articles on how t' play golf is improv'n' th' lies uv golfers all over th' country this alleged spring.

Cheaper Iron for German Ships

BREMEN.—Ship building in German ports, which experienced a slump some months ago, has been given a stimulus by the recent announcement of a reduction in the price of iron.

The Hansa Steamship Company, of Bremen has decided to begin work at once on four steamers of 12,000 tons each. The contracts will be let to firms in Hamburg, Bremen and Kiel. Other shipping companies are contemplating letting contracts for vessels in the spring.

Self-Styled Wealthy
Promoter Has Late
Version to Murder

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 5. — Russell Scott, former Toronto promoter, who according to the police, confessed and then denied a holdup in which a drug clerk was killed, has repudiated the story and declares no holdup occurred, it was disclosed today.

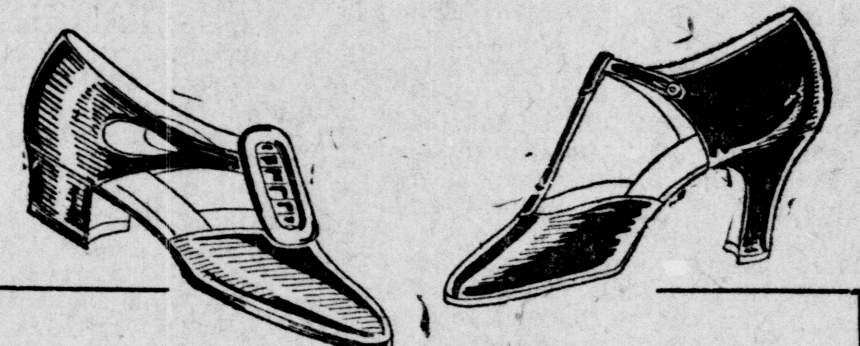

Although Scott has been identified by victims of holdup men in the presence of those who were in the store at the time, he declares, he and his brother and one of the witnesses went to the drug store to buy drinks and that the shooting occurred during an altercation over the price of the drinks. The police believe fear of the gallows led him to tell the latest version.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE WORK OF RIGHTEOUSNESS shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever. And my people shall dwell in a peaceful habitation, and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting places.—Isiah 32:17, 18.

OUR DISAPPEARING FORESTS.

Writers and speakers for many years have been warning the American people of the time when our forests would be no more, unless something is done to grow back a tree when one is cut down. As there is still lumber in great quantities, this fear oftentimes seems groundless. The U. S. Department of Agriculture, however, has figures on the question which cause a thoughtful person to worry.

One statement of the department is:

"The annual drain on our forests by cutting, fire and other destructive agencies, is four times as great as the amount of wood grown each year and nearly twice as great as we could grow under crude forestry, consisting of leaving seed trees where necessary and protecting growing forests from fire. In fact, the drain is almost as great as what we can expect to grow under the very best methods on our present forest area of about 470 million acres."

In other words, we are using up the forests as fast as it is possible to grow them back, even if the very best known methods were used. Consider that generally when forests lands are cut over, they are not permitted to grow trees again and you can realize that the time is not so far off when there will be no trees of a commercial nature.

Then, consider too how poor are the efforts to keep down forest fires, and you can see another threatening angle. Here is another extract from the Department of Agriculture's report:

"The most urgent step in restoring our forests to continuous growing of timber is to organize adequate protection against forest fires. Each year some 7 million acres of forest is burned. Fire, which goes hand in hand with destructive logging, has, through repeated burning of young trees, greatly reduced forest productivity. A little more than half our forest area receives more or less adequate protection. Twenty-seven States have organized protection, and practically all Federal forest lands are protected. In the South, one of our most important forest regions, eight States have no protection, and the rest have wholly insufficient protection."

What can we here in Oklahoma do? We can plant trees and do our small part towards keeping away the forest hunger. There are thousands of acres even in Pontotoc county which will grow trees and are fit for little else. In the eastern part of the state there is much land suitable for timber. Naturally we shall never have many commercial forests here, but we can grow trees for firewood and can keep what forests we have up to their peak of growing condition.

But conservation of forests is a national problem and will have to be handled from a national angle. The U. S. government is using discerning judgment in conserving the forests on the government land, and it should lend every support and encouragement to individuals who are cutting forests to cause a tree to be put back every time one is cut away. The time is here when we shall have to grow our lumber just as we grow our cotton.

SIX DEATHS FOR ONE.

Six white men today at noon were snatched into eternity at the end of a rope, the rope having been put there by the hand of the law.

Because one man was killed six must pay with their lives. No doubt one of the men is a murderer. No doubt all of them are criminals, or at least the law believes them to be criminals.

The justice meted out to these poor devils seems extreme, and is extreme. We did not hear the case, but we cannot quite feel that six men should go to the gallows for the death of one, especially when it was not shown which one fired the fatal shot. At the same time we cannot entirely condemn capital punishment.

To be misunderstood and have one's motives impugned will more quickly than almost anything rouse the spirit of resentment and resistance in the average individual. When one is doing his best and when he knows that his motives are good he will deeply resent unfriendly criticism. A word of encouragement at the right time may furnish the inspiration to fight many hard battles when an ill timed thrust will cause a wound of untold bitterness. If there is any doubt, by all means give the other fellow the benefit of it.

The convention hall was not finished when it was first used as a gathering place and it has been in constant use ever since. Ada people now wonder how they ever got along without it.

ARMY FLYERS IN DARING FEATURE

Fliers From Kelly Field Dare Storm in Trip to Kansas City

(By the Associated Press)
MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 7.—The army airways system of Kelly Field, Texas, has just recorded one of the most perilous flights in its history since the system was inaugurated two years ago. The flight is described by army airmen equally as daring as any of the air mail pilots or even the round-the-world trip. Lieut. David Goodrich of the attack group at Kelly Field was called upon recently to fly an airways plane from Kelly Field to Kansas City with a reserve air officer of Tulsa, called to the Missouri city by the illness of a relative. They made the trip in one of the heaviest storms this year in Oklahoma. Train service could not have landed the reserve officer in Kansas City before the next day. Commercial fliers refused to make the trip because of the storm, and planes in Tulsa were not considered capable of withstanding the elements.

The two officers took off the local field in a blinding rain. Two hundred miles out they encountered the tornado that later killed one person and wrecked several homes in the state. Then they were forced down at Pleasanton, Kansas, by motor trouble. After minor repairs the flight was continued to Kansas City.

Rain and wind accompanied the couple the entire trip. Most of the journey they flew only a few feet off the ground at a speed of 100 miles an hour, in order to maintain their bearings. To have lost sight of the ground would have caused them to miss their course.

This was the first instance on record with the airways in which an army plane of the system has been employed in an emergency of that nature. Lt. Col. John H. Howard, commander of Kelly Field, said.

Ordinarily the trip would not have been attempted but for the mission in view, the colonel declared. The army airways operated regularly between Kelly Field and Scott Field, Belleville, Ill. It provides army officers and men with rapid means of transportation and also a conveyance for government mail and freight.

Tuberculosis to Play Important Part in Health

(By the Associated Press)
ATLANTA, May 9.—Tuberculosis must play a most important part in every phase of public health work, said Dr. R. L. Carlton, health officer of Winston-Salem, N. C., before the National Tuberculosis Association here today.

"Because the records of deaths show us that one in every 10 to 12 is a tuberculous death; because it has been determined that practically everyone is at sometime infected with tuberculosis because no age nor sex is entirely immune; because so much depends upon the individual's resisting power as to whether the invasion of the body shall result in disease and death or merely in a healed lesion; because this disease destroys the young adult in the most productive age; because housing conditions, general sanitation, protection of supplies, etc., are decided influencing factors in the prevention of this disease; because of these facts tuberculosis should play a very important part in general health program."

Farmers May be Pleased With Oklahoma Schools

OKLAHOMA CITY—Farmers who come to northeastern Oklahoma to buy land need not expect to find perfect school conditions. All the counties to which these farmers will come have known statehood and self-government only since 1907. Before that the land was practically all owned by Indians in common, and was not taxed. Even yet there is much land which does not pay taxes. Northeastern Oklahoma's school system is all most recent.

But if homeseekers must bear in mind the newness of the school system, they need not therefore imagine that it is merely a backwoods system. Of course, conditions vary in the different counties, but the accompanying table shows that in spite of the fact that these northeastern counties began late, and have worked under tremendous difficulties, much has already been accomplished, as the total of 83 four-year high schools in the 19 counties proves.

We Lead in Schools.
Tulsa county leads in schools, with only 19 rural districts, and 16 above that grade, including 11 high schools. Washington* has fewer rural districts, 16, but its total number of schools, is only 24, as against Tulsa's 35. Creek county has 10 high schools, only one short of Tulsa's, but it has 54 rural districts and a total of all schools of 72. From these the counties grade down to Delaware, with only two schools out of 71 that are not rural.

Homeseekers would not be coming either, to a state which is utterly unimproved of its duties in regard to schools. While Oklahoma, largely because of the reasons enumerated above, does not lead in rural education, it is constantly making progress. Last October a constitutional amendment was adopted that will, if it is finally held legal, give $15 per capita in state aid to all children enrolled in all schools. This will be a vast aid to the districts that are weak, and enable them to establish better schools. And the movement for consolidation goes on apace, all over the state, with the state assisting in the movement.

Turning Toward Better Marketing.
So far as cooperative market organizations go, for the marketing of crops, the northeastern counties happen to be more backward than most other parts of the state. Many of the cotton growers, of course, belong to the Oklahoma Cotton Growers association, but few if any of the wheat growers are organized. There is a strawberry growers' cooperative in Craig county, some strawberry growers farther east belong to the Ozark association of Missouri, and there is a general farmers' cooperative in Tulsa county, but these are the principal ones.

Yet here, too, entirely aside from the friendly spirit manifested towards co-operative marketing organizations by the business men, the state stands ready to assist. The state market commission will send experienced agents to any section to assist farmers in organizing cooperative organizations. After a period of inactivity, due to the disorganized conditions at the state capital, the commission is now fully functioning again, and Ed C. Dustin, secretary of the commission, stands ready to assist farmers at any time. One field man is stationed in the northeastern counties, John W. McCracken, at Nowata.

The commission is just completing plans to adopt the federal grades for all farm products, thus assisting farmers in grading their products uniformly, and thus obtaining better prices for them.

PUBLIC SPEAKING STUDENT ADDRESSES THEATRE GOERS

In assisting the sponsors of the National Music Week here, high school students of Prof. J. L. German in the public speaking department are making short speeches at the theatres during the week.

The following speech was made by Miss Charlotte German at the McSwain theatre last evening: Ladies and Gentlemen:

This week has been proclaimed in America, National Music Week. It is my pleasure this evening to speak briefly to you on this interesting subject.

The human family, from the early dawn of history, has always been lovers of music. God has planted this love in the human heart; and men, women and children have always loved to sing and play. Our oldest histories record the events of peoples in story and song; and the first pieces of literature among every people have been in the form of poetry, sung by bards and minstrels before kings, queens and the nobility, while the common people have sung their ballads. Even instruments of music of various kinds were used by David and Solomon, 1,000 years before Christ, 3,000 years ago.

Music, both by the human voice and by invented instruments, have played a great part in the great drama of human life. The cultured music circle, as well as the masses of the people, seem to believe that the greatest music possible is that produced by the trained and cultivated human voice. What is more inspiring than a quartet or chorus of highly trained voices before a listening audience? The human voice is God's instrument of music. But all kinds of good music have been a great blessing to the human family. In the home, burdens of labor are made lighter; sorrows are banished; and life itself is made sweeter.

Music is a blessing to the church. It is an education in the school; and the day has come when both vocal and instrumental music is carried into the community at large.

Music inspires the soldier to fight; gives rest to the tired mother; gives recreation in the evening to the returned father and the school children; relieves sorrows, and praises God in worship. There is music wherever there is harmony, order and proportion. Shakespeare said, "The man that hath no music in himself, nor is not moved by the concord of sweet sounds, is fit for treason, stratagem and spoils." I thank you.

KARNAK WINS PUBLIC PRAISE OF E. H. COOKE

E. H. Cooke, prominent contractor, business man and property owner, living at 1324 S. Peoria St., Tulsa, Okla., is still another ardent champion of the wonderful reconstructive powers of Karnak since his recent restoration to health by means of the famous new medicine. "Before I got hold of Karnak I suffered from such severe digestive troubles that I was weak and worn-out all the time and felt sick at my stomach both day and night," says Mr. Cooke. "Bloating caused me no end of misery, I couldn't eat, couldn't sleep, couldn't work right, and in fact, for the past year, felt like I was about ready to give up completely. Then, when spring set in, spring fever together with my other troubles made me feel even worse than ever.

"But Karnak has rid me of all my ailments and I am glad to tell everyone that this medicine has put me back to feeling like my old self. I have gained eight pounds in weight and am enjoying the very best of health. Anyone who suffers like I did will make no mistake by taking Karnak, it's a world-beater."

Karnak is sold in Ada exclusively by Gwin & Mays; and in Stonewall by Chas. L. Burnett's. Adv.

TRAPS SWING LOW AND SIX PAY PENALTY FOR DEATH OF ONE

Italian-American organizations and individuals throughout the country and Governor Parker received thousands of letters telegrams and resolutions protesting against the conviction of innocent men asking for clemency.

It had been established that only one, and at the most, two men, had fired at Calmes and for three years efforts were made to determine the guilty man. He would not admit his guilt nor would any of his companions disclose his identity, if they knew it. The Saturday before Easter, Leona requested the Rev. Father Raymond Carra, of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, in New Orleans, to visit him that he might perform his "Easter Duties." Leona in his confession to the priest, said he fired the shot which killed Calmes. Father Carra told him he could not hope for forgiveness from his Maker if he did not make a public confession and clear his five companions. Leona agreed to do so and on Easter Monday in the presence of the superintendent of the Orleans parish prison where the men had been held for safekeeping, Father Carra and newspaper men dictated a confession and signed it.

Leona Makes Statement
In his statement, Leona said he and Gislio came to New Orleans to make and sell whiskey. He had been told by Vito di Giorgio, who was later killed in Chicago, that he could become rich in a short time if he robbed the bank at Independence. Leona thought well of the suggestion and asked Gislio to join him. He had met Lemantia in New Orleans and when he broached the subject to him, Lemantia and friend Rini agreed to participate. The next step was to find a man who knew the highways about Independence and Deamora was persuaded to become a member of the party. Deamora asked Bocchio to join them and the sextette set out for Independence. When the bandits approached the bank shortly after midnight Leona and Rini, Leona said, left. Rini, however, Leona said, did the car while the other four remained to accompany him but disappeared in another direction.

"I tried to get near the bank by means of the rear yard of Mr. Calmes house," the confession continued. "As I jumped over the fence one of the pickets broke and the noise must have awakened Mr. Calmes. Mr. Calmes opened the door and shouted 'Halt!' and fired four shots at me. Being surprised and frightened, I fired two shots in the direction that the fire of Mr. Calmes revolver was coming from, but unfortunately for him and for me I killed him. I was alone when Mr. Calmes shot at me and I alone returned the fire which killed Mr. Calmes."

Claimed Trapped-up Affair
When the confession was made public Tangipahoa parish authorities attorneys and the widow of Calmes pronounced it "a trapped-up affair" in an attempt to save the lives of Leona's five companions. They pointed out that his confession did not coincide with the evidence and Mrs. Calmes declared she had seen two men. There was also a question concerning the shots Leona is supposed to have fired, for bullets were found where it was said they could not have come from his pistol or that of Calmes.

Another feature dwelt upon by those who placed little faith in the confession was that it came after all hope to escape had vanished, and that Leona had contracted tuberculosis during the long confinement which physicians said would prove fatal within a few months.

This was referred to by Governor Parker in a formal statement April 23 in connection with his declaration that no reprieve would be granted. After stating that the convicted men had had the benefit of counsel the Governor added: "At the 11th hour one of their number, now afflicted with tuberculosis, seeks to assume responsibility, but in his own statement convicts every man proven to be a member of the party."

"Keeping thoroughly posted with every detail of these cases, having carefully watched the trial, realizing mine is an executive duty and being determined to back up to the fullest extent the decision of the courts, after having carefully read all the evidence, in my opinion these men are guilty of deliberate conspiracy, wilful murder, and the law shall take its course without interference from the Governor. This decision is final."

NEW LORD MAYOR OF YORK SAYS HE WON'T BE KIDDED

(By the Associated Press)
YORK, England.—The Council of the Corporation of this town are a lot of piffing frauds in regard to the recognition of the Civic Sunday," is an utterance of the first Labor Lord Mayor, Alderman Dobbie. He added that the members of the corporation have recently attended church in such small numbers that he would not waste his time putting on the mayoral robes, even to keep up the traditions of the city, if other members would not accompany him. "If they have kidded other Lord Mayors to go to church in these circumstances, they won't kid me," Mr. Dobbie declared.

The bill is based entirely on the Washington labor convention, with few additions due to local conditions, such as prohibition of the employment of boys or girls under fifteen, which is contrary to the Polish constitution.

Episcopal Bishop to Face Heresy Charge from Church

CLEVELAND, O., May 9.—No less defiant, Bishop William Montgomery Brown, of Galion, O., is preparing to appear before a court in Trinity Episcopal cathedral, here, May 27, on charges of heresy, preferred against him "for holding and teaching publicly and privately and advisedly, doctrine contrary to that held by the Episcopal church" with an array of attorneys.

In a new statement, he warns the House of Bishops that his will be "the last Anglo-American church trial."

Bishop Brown retired from the diocese of Arkansas in 1912 on account of ill health. He now calls himself the "Bishop of Bolshevism."

His open letter to the House avers that all of the bishops are as much heretics as he; "that there is nothing of an unique character about the Christian God, church, ministry, sacraments, or Bible;" and jeers at the clergy as "medi-

Tuberculosis Gains In Time of Scarcity Of Food, Is Claim

(By the Associated Press)

ATLANTA, May 7.—Tuberculosis increases in times of scarcity of food and decreases when an adequate food supply is provided. This statement was brought out by Dr. Linsly R. Williams, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, in a report upon the activities of that organization at the opening session of their annual meeting to-night.

The influence of a continued state of under-nutrition has been observed in many European countries during and since the war, and has emphasized the importance of nutrition. The satisfactory business conditions in the United States have made it possible for the general mass of the population here to take advantage of better conditions and maintain a standard of living higher than has ever before existed in this country. This in turn has been reflected in a decrease in the death rate.

But this is not the only factor at work. The active work of the National Tuberculosis Association and its various state and local tuberculosis associations has been largely influential during the last 20 years in reducing the death rate from tuberculosis, from a total of 201 per 100,000 in 1900 to 97 in 1922.

ZANE GREY AND PARA- MOUNT TRY TO BEAT IT

First "To The Last Man" then "The Call of The Canyon," and now "The Heritage of The Desert" which opens at the McSwain Theatre to-night. It's an Irvin Willat production featuring Bebe Daniels, Ernest Torrence, Noah Berry and Lloyd Hughes.

It's western drama d luxe with all it's humor and love interest. A tenderfoot arrives from the east and straightway finds himself in wrong with a band of rough desert characters and cattle thieves. They suspect him of spying on them for August Naab, owner of the "Oasis," the finest ranch in the country which they aim to obtain—through force if necessary.

As the first step in the enforcement of their plan, Holderness kidnaps Naab's adopted daughter, Mescal, forcing her to marry him. Infuriated, Naab, with a tribe of friendly Navajos and neighboring ranchers who have suffered at the hand of Holderness, raid the town of White Sage, the outlaw's stronghold where his every word is law. A spectacular battle follows in which not a building is left standing. Holderness and his reign is wiped out forever, Mescal rescued and returned to Jack Hare, the tenderfoot, whom her guardian had befriended, knowing that there must be some good in any man Holderness had no use for.

For Miss Daniels, as Mescal too much cannot be said. She lives the role rather than plays it. Ernest Torrence in the part of the rancher, Naab—that's sufficient witness his "Jackson" in the "Covered Wagon" and "Cousin Egbert" in "Rugles of Red Gap". We never really hated anyone as we did Noah Berry as Holderness. He is one really good bad actor, if you get what we mean Lloyd Hughes has a somewhat sympathetic role—that is sympathetic at least until he swings into action against Holderness—then it's the latter gets, or needs the sympathy.

Dullness is unknown in any foot of the story. It's exceptionally well done.

MIMIC BATTLE WITH INDIANS
CALLS FOR DRASTIC CONTROL
(By the Associated Press)

SHERIDAN, Wyo., May 8.—Dr. William Frackelton of this city, who produced the first "Powder River frontier days" and originated the annual "stampede" here, and has been "adopted" by the Crow Indians, tells of the first reproduction of the Custer massacre ever staged.

The part of the Sioux Indians was played by 200 Crows, and local national guard troops were Custer's men. In the midst of the mimic battle Blue Bear, one of the Indians insisted on capturing the American flag. This was not in the rehearsal, and immediately the "dead" troopers rose and returned to action. Blue Bear was shot from behind with the "wadding from a blank cartridge. A battle royal with fists ensued. As Dr. Frackelton expressed it, "Custer was soon avenged."

COAST OBSERVER REPORTS SCARCITY OF THUNDER STORMS

(By the Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—A strip of the Pacific coast between British Columbia and Lower California, taking in the cities of Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, has fewer thunder storms than any other section of the United States, according to officials of the Weather Bureau.

E. A. Beals, United States meteorologist here, pointed out that the reason for this, roughly speaking, is that the rains along the coast come mostly in winter, when atmospheric conditions are less favorable for the generation of electricity. The thunder storms of the interior states and along the Atlantic coast happen largely in spring and summer, he explained, when there are warm rains.

SUNLIGHT RECOMMENDED AS TUBERCULAR TOOL

ATLANTA, May 9.—Sunlight in the treatment of tuberculosis was highly recommended by Major E. H. Bruns, commander of the Fitzsimmons General Hospital U. S. A. at Denver, Colo., and Dr. Horace LoGrasso and Dr. Frank C. Balderrey of the J. N. Adam Memorial Hospital, Perysburg, N. Y., before the National Tuberculosis Association last night.

Major Bruns spoke of the satisfactory use of heliotherapy, treatment of tuberculosis by direct sunlight, in cases of tuberculosis of the spine and spinal column. Excellent results have been achieved with this method in the Fitzsimmons Hospital although, as pointed out by Major Bruns, the course of treatment sometimes takes three to four years.

Doctor LoGrasso and Doctor Balderrey pointed out that heliotherapy has a direct and favorable application in cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, although it has not been used widely in this form of tuberculosis in the United States. His results indicated this method of treatment is of the greatest value in tuberculosis of the lungs and one of the benefits noted being a striking improvement in the physical condition. Judicious and careful application of sunlight treatment improves the blood, lessens the activity of the pulmonary process, decreases fever and sputum, and greatly affects the mental attitude of the patient. The use of the direct sunlight is much to be preferred to any kind of artificial light treatment. "At its best," says Doctor LoGrasso, artificial light therapy is only a poor substitute for solar energy."

COTTON STANDARD REVISION PROPOSED AS AN ECONOMY

CHICAGO, May 8.—If consumers of cotton goods desire maximum wear out of their sheeting, bolting, canvas and tires, cotton standards should be revised to include tensile strength in classing cotton for market, according to results of a 15-year field and technical study on the subject, announced by the Bureau of Industrial Research here.

Existing cotton standards also are responsible for much of the child labor in cotton fields and much illiteracy in cotton growing states, a report argues. Study of cotton fiber in the survey provided data which agreed in condemning the present mixture of unripe with ripe cotton in most of the bales which are ginned and shipped, the report added.

ENGLAND BLAMED FOR ILLICIT LIQUOR TRADE TO AMERICA

(By the Associated Press)

BELFAST—Ulster's acting premier, Hugh McDowell Pollock, speaking here recently advised his hearers when they heard adverse reports regarding American prohibition not to believe them.

Although the law was, Mr. Pollock added, thanks to Great Britain, notoriously broken along the Atlantic coast, little was being said of the hinterland, of that vast country where a great reformation had taken place and a great revolution, not only for that country but for the whole world, had occurred. He thought Britain had every reason to be ashamed of that illicit trade which was encouraging American law breaking. It was a stain on her fair name and, he concluded she would suffer for it.

Georgia Lady Says She Has Grown Stronger by Taking Cardui—Thoroughly Convinced of Its Merits.

Clyattville, Ga.—In a statement which she gave at her home on R. F. D. 1, here, Mrs. T. A. Copeland said:

"I have, I believe, avoided a good deal of suffering by the use of Cardui, and am thoroughly convinced that it has been of great benefit to me.

"Before the birth of two of my children, I grew so weak and nervous I could hardly go, and suffered. . . I had a friend who told me of Cardui, so the next time when I grew so weak and run-down I began to use it. I used it three months. I grew stronger and less nervous. The baby was stronger and a better baby, and I really believe it was because I built up my strength with this splendid tonic.

Cardui has been in successful use for more than forty years. Thousands of women have written to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others.

It is a mild, harmless, purely vegetable medicinal preparation—a product of practical experience, scientific investigation and pharmaceutical skill.

NOTORIOUS WOMAN CRIMINAL POSES AS MAN STAR-BOARDER

(By the Associated Press)

BERLIN—Herr von Waranowski lived for many months in a Berlin boarding house and enjoyed the reputation of a model roomer. He was polite, considerate and always prompt in the payment of his rent, and no one in the house ever even suspected that this young man was a woman, the notorious Clara Wittig, with a criminal record.

One of the woman lodgers was amazed one night to find Waranowski standing over her bed with a revolver in his hand, demanding her valuables. She visited and robbed all the other lodgers before disappearing. The police caught the culprit, and thus was her identity revealed.

OKLAHOMA LADY GAINS 20 LBS. TAKING TANLAC

"And With Increased Weight Came Good Health" Says Mrs. Gepford.

Offering her experience as proof of both the immediate and lasting good being accomplished by the Tanlac treatment, Mrs. B. D. Gepford, 729 East 7th St., Oklahoma City, Okla., recently said:

"The good health I have enjoyed the past four years is all due to Tanlac. Before I took it I had indigestion so bad I couldn't eat and at times I felt like I would smother from the gas on my stomach. I was also extremely nervous and had fearful dizzy spells.

"Six bottles of Tanlac ran my weight up from 112 to 132 lbs., which makes me heavier than I ever was before. In fact I outgrew all my clothes and had to buy new ones but with my increased weight came good health and that is the greatest benefit of all.

"I believe Tanlac will help any one who takes it according to directions and stick to it long enough. Anyway, it proved to be a wonderful thing for me and there's nothing too good I can say for it."

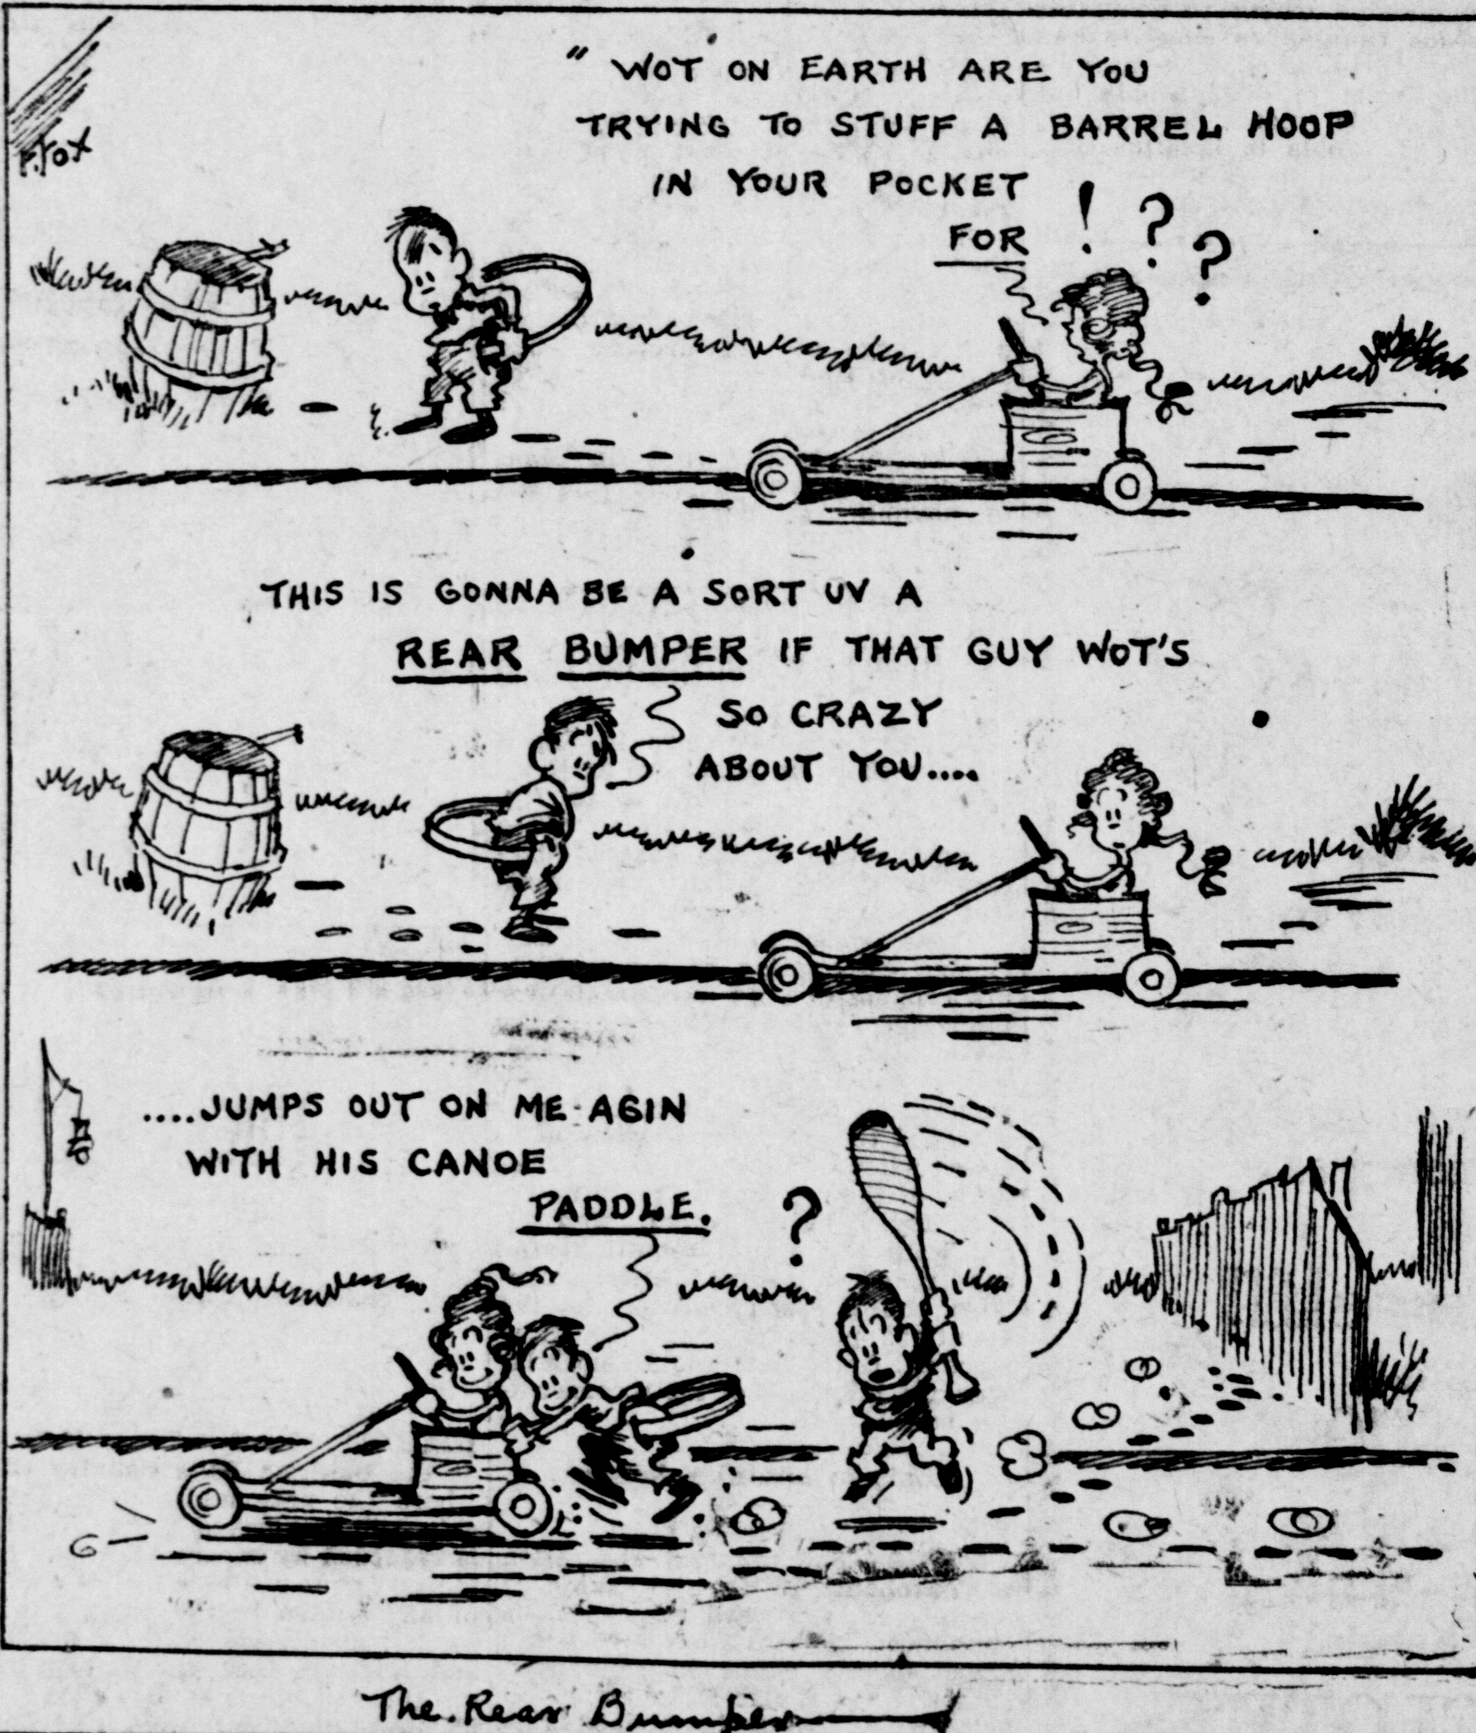

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

TO LAUNCH LAND SELLING CONGRESS

Purpose of Settlement of Neglected Farms in North Oklahoma

(By the Associated Press)
TULSA, Okla., May 7.—A land selling congress to be started here tomorrow by the Northeast Oklahoma chamber of commerce for the development and settlement of neglected farm land in the northeast part of the state, is attracting a large number of outside agriculturists. More than 100 men, most of them interested in the purchase and tilling of new land in Oklahoma, are here tonight for the meeting.

Pimples

BLOOD impurities are pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that impossible "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells, and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes Venus-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. S.S.S. builds the red-blood-cells you need for a beautiful complexion. Begin using S.S.S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for, for years.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

There are approximately 5,000,000 acres of tillable land in the northeastern section of the state, plans for the sale of which will be made. The land will be offered as cheaply as is commensurate with its value, the main purpose of the sale being to attract new farmers to the state, chamber officials say. Actual sale of the land will not be attempted at once but plans for the undertaking are to be perfected tomorrow if possible.

An extensive campaign has been conducted by the chamber for the last two months to interest farmers in the possibilities of the section. Railroads and real estate dealers are co-operating with the chamber in the project. Prospective purchasers are being taken to the tracts, and the chamber has obtained farm experts to advise purchasers as to the crops best suited to the soil.

The selling congress will continue two days. A program of farm instruction has been arranged. Among the speakers will be T. M. Jeffords of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad; C. L. Seagraves of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad; J. E. Hannegan of the Southwestern Passenger Agents' association; A. W. Lefebvre, general manager of the Midland Valley railroad; Dr. H. J. Waters, editor of the Kansas City Weekly Star; Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Oklahoma A. and M. college and E. Dee Guthrey, of the Northeast Oklahoma chamber of commerce.

LONDON—With so many tourists in the country it is impossible for a marquis to have the privacy his position demands, the lawyers of the Marquis of Granby told a court in seeking an injunction against strangers trespassing on the fields near his estate and against tourist parties passing along the roads.

The lawyer said the marquis had spent a lot of money on the estate, and wanted to live there, but this was impossible owing to footpaths and roads running so close to and through the property. The marquis did not object to local people but when tourists nosed about, it aroused the noble indignation.

Over Five Hundred Candidates For Degrees This Season

NORMAN, May 9.—(Special)—The thirty-second annual commencement exercises of the University of Oklahoma will begin Sunday, June 1, for 582 students, candidates for degrees. Doctor Lincoln McConnell, pastor of the First Baptist church, Oklahoma City, will give the baccalaureate address at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Joseph Villers Denney, M. A., professor of English, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, will deliver the commencement address at 10 o'clock Tuesday.

Contrary to custom the exercises will last but three days this year. Sunday, June 1, is baccalaureate Sunday. On Monday the annual business meeting of the University of Oklahoma association will be held. Then in the evening will be the commencement concert at the University auditorium followed by an alumni reception at the Women's building.

Tuesday, June 3, will be the last day of the exercises. The day will start with the Academic procession at 9:30 followed by the commencement address at 10 o'clock. The day closes with an alumni luncheon at 12:30.

Five hundred eighty-two university students are prospective candidates for degrees to be given during the commencement exercises, according to figures compiled by George Wadsack, assistant registrar. There will be 592 degrees conferred to the prospective 582 candidates, 10 men receiving two degrees each.

Of the total to receive degrees, the men students outnumber women students. Figures show that 360 men may get degrees, while 222 women are candidates for the sheepskin.

The college of arts and sciences leads in the number of students who are candidates for degrees, there being 240 students who are eligible so far. The school of medicine with 84 degrees is second in the list.

Other schools and colleges with the number of students who are candidates in each follow: school of business, 23; school of education, 30; college of engineering, 31; school of fine arts, 28; school of law, 46; school of pharmacy, 49; graduate school, 22.

Students funking out in final examinations may deplete this list of possible candidates, Wadsack said.

JAPANESE FARMERS OBJECTED TO RECONSTRUCTION OF TOKIO

TOKIO.—Rural voters in Japan are five times as numerous as those from the cities, according to figures published by the Home office in anticipation of the general elections for the House of Representatives which will be held May 10.

These figures finish the most convincing explanation of the legislature's opposition to large-scale for the reconstruction of Tokio after the earthquake. The extraordinary session of the Diet which sat last December made impossible plans which exceeded the bare necessities of reconstruction. The fact that five-sixths of the representatives were returned by country voters, who do not want the capital rebuilt at the expense of the rural districts, explains the Diet's opposition to the ambitious plans presented to it by Viscount Goto, then the Home Minister and president of the reconstruction board.

Tokio to Absorb Yokohama.

(By the Associated Press)

TOKIO—The eventual absorption of Yokohama in Greater Tokio is the objective toward which plans announced by the Home Office are aimed. These plans, in connection with the new Tokio-Yokohama highway, which is to be opened this year, call for three large public parks between the two cities, and two promenades on the seacoast, one near each city.

GOLFERS FACING TRICKY COURSE

Open Championship Golf Contestants Face Many Hazards

DETROIT, May 8.—The golf course at the Oakland Hills Country Club, where the national open championship will be played June 5 and 6, is regarded by expert golfers as providing about the best test of golfing of any course in the country. Deceiving distances, shifting winds, and fairways that are well trapped are some of the handicaps that best players unfamiliar with the links, and even those who have played over the course before must be on their game, or they will find themselves in trouble.

The total yardage of the course is 6,771 and par is 72. Always there is a wind. Most often it is from the west, an aid to the player on the first and second holes but dead against him on 7, 8, and 9, while on the other holes it blows across the fairways. The breeze, however, is never constant, shifting frequently enough to make the course a different test entirely even on the same day.

The difficulty found by most golfers trying out the course for the first time lies in the deceiving distances, resulting in underclubbing shots. Although the fairways are wide and rolling they are trapped well, and shots that are wide are sure to cause the golfer who makes them considerable trouble.

Number 1 hole of 438 yards calls for a down hill drive, with deep traps about midway down on either side of the fairway to catch hooks and slices. Number 2 hole is 480 yards, with a wide trap running across the fairway to catch topped drives. No. 3, 199 yards, is the first hole, with green well trapped, while No. 4 is an elbow hole and measures 410 yards.

The drive from No. 5 tee, calls for a carry over a slight hill, and the same condition prevails on the next hole. Number 5 is 425 yards and No. 6 is 345. From No. 7 tee the drive is from one hill to another with a brook, which also crosses No. 5, ready to etact a hooked second shot. This hole is 383 yards. The green on No. 8 is higher than the tee by about 25 feet, in a gradual rise. The green is a terrace affair with a steep bank in back. The hole is 435 yards.

Number 9 hole is only 250 yards but any curves either to right or left from the fairway take the ball into traps. The 450 yard No. 10 and the 386 yard No. 11 require careful drives and second shots to avoid hazards. The No. 12 hole is 560 yards, the longest of the 18 and regarded as the most difficult. The drive is from a hill into a valley, with a pond at the right about 200 yards from the tee. A slice is apt to go into the water, while on the left is long grass. Par for the hole is five.

The 130-yard No. 13 is negotiated with a mashie pitch to the green which is surrounded by sand traps. The drive on No. 14 calls for a carry of 175 yards over a marsh. The hole is 475 yards. Number 15 hole of 390 yards is another elbow and No. 16, measuring 360 yards, is one of the most picturesque and difficult of the course. No. 17 is another short hole (183 yards) with a par of three, and No. 18 which is 470 yards is an elbow calling for a good brassie to follow the drive.
